

- Early exploration: what can computers do for us?
- Specialized applications for business and science.
- Mostly assembly language.
- Distributing software for personalized computers
- and the web.
- High-level languages, particularly object-oriented.
- Data analytics of websized datasets.
- Deep learning becoming effective in business and science.